Course Overview: In Spanish 2-3 a strong emphasis is given to speaking, listening, reading and writing the language, as well as to studying culture. First semester students will continue to attain proficiency in communicating about present tense events while beginning their mastery of recounting activities that have occurred in the past. Second semester, students will be given ample opportunities to put the knowledge gained in Spanish 1 and 2 into practice through structured classroom activities, projects, and assignments. In addition, students will attain a higher level of proficiency through the acquisition of new complex grammatical constructions, and the introduction of the future and conditional verb tenses

Instructional Philosophy:

Many instructional approaches will be used to help all types of learners: Teaching Proficiency through Reading and Storytelling (TPRS), questioning strategies (yes/no, either/on, multiple choice, short answer), Total Physical Response (TPR), reading authentic documents, listening to authentic music, visiting authentic websites and studying authentic films to name a few. Students will be actively engaged and will be expected to participate voluntarily and/or when called upon. Participation does not mean always giving the correct answer but a willingness to try to use Spanish and a genuine attempt at learning the material or asking questions when the material is unclear. The class will be conducted in Spanish and students are expected to communicate in Spanish as well.

Course Goals:

Students will also be keeping a journal in Spanish. Writing topics and reading class time will be given to students as the teacher sees fit. Topics will be related to the material being studied in class. A new component of Spanish 2/3 is that students will be required to bring in and discuss a current event every other week on the second semester. The current event must be from a Spanish language source and will be discussed in Spanish. Current events are due on Fridays.

Spanish 2/3 will also introduce students to Hispanic Film. One major film will be viewed per quarter.

Specific objectives: (please refer to the pacing guide for specific grammar, and vocabulary)

1. To develop the 2/3 language skills: Listening, speaking, reading and writing; to at least an ACTFL novice intermediate/high level.

- Exceptions will be made due to extraordinary circumstances at the discretion of the teacher on a case-by-case basis.

2. 20% reading:
3. 20% listening:
4. 22% speaking:
5. 15% Interpersonal skills and participation: This includes paying attention and contributing to the class. Reacting to class discussions in real time is what this is all about—back and forth communication with other speakers. This is the first category because face-to-face verbal interaction is what learning a language is mostly about—the vast majority of students take a language because they want to be able to SPEAK it and this is how that is done—back and forth communication.

Final test can also be a final performance task (20% of second semester)

Course Credit: Any student must receive a B or better in the Spanish 4 coursework in order to be recommended to proceed on to the next course in the sequence. Although a student may still receive course credit for a C or a D, failure to maintain a C+ average or higher indicates failure to attain sufficient proficiency in the language to guarantee success at the next level.

CHAT (Collaboration-Help-Achievement-Tutoring): CHAT is every WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY from 11:54 a.m. to 12:52 p.m. This is an opportunity for students to have time to eat lunch and seek assistance from teachers with school work. On pre-determined days each month CHAT time may be used to meet with clubs. Teachers may require a student to make up work during CHAT time. If a student has received a pass from a teacher to attend their CHAT, it is MANDATORY that the student attend. Failure to attend a CHAT appointment will result in disciplinary action.

IMPORTANT - AHS Student Handbook: Each student at AHS receives a student planner. Located inside the student planner is important information regarding rules and regulations.
